

What to Expect with Anodyne® Therapy Treatment

You will be receiving treatment with an exciting technology called Anodyne® Therapy.

The Anodyne® Infrared Light Therapy System is a non-invasive, drug-free device that has been cleared by the FDA for temporarily increasing circulation and reducing pain, stiffness and muscle spasm and has been used safely on tens of thousands of patients. Excellent clinical outcomes have been shown in 15 published studies.

What might you experience during treatment?

- Patients typically feel a soothing warmth. If the pads feel too hot for comfort, tell your health care provider right away so treatment can be modified to your individual needs.
- Sometimes Anodyne Therapy leaves a pink area on your skin where the therapy pads were placed. This is due to increased circulation and should disappear after a few hours.
- You may feel some tingling or minor pain at first. Your health care provider may adjust the pad location or settings to make the treatments more comfortable for you, but these symptoms should improve within a few treatments.
- If you have diabetes, you may require less diabetes medication as you exercise. Check your blood sugars more often!

It is important not to discontinue treatment before you are discharged by your therapist or physician! Please ask your health care professionals if you have additional questions.

If you have a chronic condition, you may need a Home System to STAY Better.
